Visit us in our New Building

WE extend a cordial invitation to all alumni of Brown University to visit us in our new home which we occupied early in the year.

You will be interested in its attractive architecture and the many conveniences provided for its customers and the public.

Our wonderful new safe deposit vault is in itself worth a special trip of inspection.

But all these physical things, attractive, convenient and confidence-inspiring as they are, serve only as a background and as equipment enabling us to render the most satisfactory service in every department of banking and trust business.

Call upon us and see if there is not some way in which we can serve you at this time.

Why have 33,000 College Men enrolled in the Alexander Hamilton Institute?

THE President of the largest institution of its kind in America—a man still in his forties—was commenting on his own experience in business.

“When I graduated from college I supposed I was equipped with the training necessary to business success,” he said.

“As a matter of fact I had nothing more than a bare foundation. I discovered that fact even in my first job, and for weeks I spent my evenings in a night school trying to master the elements of cost-finding and accountancy.

“Later as I made my way up toward executive positions I found I needed to know the fundamentals of sales and merchandising, of advertising and factory management, of office organization and corporation finance.

“These I picked up from books as best I could. Probably my college training made it easier for me to acquire them; but the college training alone certainly was not an adequate preparation for business in my case. I doubt if it is for any man.”

More than 95,000 men in ten years

THE Alexander Hamilton Institute was not founded early enough to be of service to this man; but it grew out of an appreciation of the needs of men of just this type.

In the ten years of its existence the Institute has enrolled more than 95,000 men who are to-day making more rapid progress in business as a result of its training.

Of these 95,000 no less than 33,000 are graduates of colleges and universities.

This is the Institute’s mark of distinction—that its appeal is to the unusual man. It has only one course, embracing the fundamentals underlying all business, and its training fits a man for the sort of executive positions where demand always outruns supply.

The splendid privilege of saving wasted years

ONE of the tragedies of the business world is that so many college men spend so many of the best years of their lives in doing tasks which they know are below their real capacities.

It is the privilege of the Institute to save those wasted years—to give a man in the leisure moments of a few months the working knowledge of the various departments of modern business which would ordinarily take him years to acquire.

That the Institute’s Modern Business Course and Service actually achieves this splendid result, that its training is practical and immediately applicable to the problems of every business, the records of 95,000 business men, in every kind of business, prove.

At least you will want the facts

EVERY college man in business is interested in business training. He is interested in it either as a factor in his own progress; or as a factor in the progress of the younger men associated with him, who are constantly turning to him for advice.

To put all the facts regarding the Modern Business Course and Service in convenient form the Alexander Hamilton Institute has prepared a 116-page book, entitled “Forging Ahead in Business”. It tells concisely and specifically what the Course is and what it has done for other men. There is a copy of this book free for every college man in business; send for your copy to-day.

Electricity— the Master Force in Manufacturing

THE marvels of electricity have revolutionized our manufacturing industries. With belts and pulleys replaced by electric motors operating automatic—almost human—machines, many a slow and tedious process has been eliminated. The factory worker's task of yesterday is made pleasant by his command of this magic power.

The Crane Company's plant at Chicago—electrical throughout—is a model of industrial efficiency. Its 10,000 horsepower of driving energy is brought by three small wires from a distant power plant. Then electricity drives the machinery which handles the coal for heating, cuts the steel, sifts the sand and sorts the material—in fact does everything from scrubbing the floor to winding the clock.

Such an institution is marvelous—superhuman—made thus by the man-multiplying force of electricity. The General Electric Company has been instrumental in effecting this evolution. First, by developing successful electric generating and transmission apparatus to furnish economically this modern form of power. Secondly, through many years of active co-operation with hundreds of manufacturers, it has mastered the art of applying the use of electrical energy to a multitude of needs. And finally, through branch offices and other distributing channels, its products are made accessible to all.

PROVIDENCE, JANUARY, 1920

NO. 6

TO RAISE THREE MILLIONS FOR BROWN

Confident of the faith of the American public in collegiate education, confident of the loyalty and devotion of her sons and daughters everywhere, Brown University has actively begun the raising of the proposed Endowment and Development Fund of three million dollars. Henry D. Sharpe, '94, of Providence, has been made Chairman and Dr. Hermon C. Bumpus, Boston, Associate Chairman of the Executive Committee recently appointed by President W. H. P. Faunce to have charge of the organization and raising of the Fund. Dr. Bumpus has already taken an office on the second floor of the Administration Building and will give his entire time to the project. The other members of the Executive Committee are:

G. Edward Buxton, Jr., Providence; Paul C. DeWolf, Providence; W. H. P. Faunce, Providence; Fred T. Field, Boston, Mass.; Charles E. Hughes, New York city; Noble B. Judah, Chicago, Ill.; William W. Keen, Philadelphia, Pa.; Stephen O. Metcalf, Providence; Samuel H. Ordway, New York city; Arthur W. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.; Cornelius S. Sweetland, Providence.

Although the Corporation had already decided that at least three million dollars was necessary in order "to provide for adequate compensation for instruction in the University and for such additional purposes as may be deemed necessary," the Endowment and Development Fund was actually launched in New York at a recent meeting of some twenty-five alumni and officers of the University. At that time the President and Comtroller both reported concerning the financial situation which faced the University. It was the opinion of those present that the amount mentioned by the Corporation was an absolute necessity and an irreducible minimum. The President was assured that he, and those whom he might associate with him in carrying out the wishes of the Corporation, would receive the enthusiastic support of all alumni and friends of the University.

There will be no "Drive" in the sense that the world has come to understand the word; there will be no sensational methods in either publicity or solicitation. Brown alumni and the general public have become tired of the professional touch in solicitation, have become inured to the machine-made appeals of the organizations which have been so common in the last few years. Brown's appeal—if such a call can be named an appeal—stands or falls on its own merits. All who are familiar with the college know the service which Brown—in common with other educational institutions—has always rendered the nation. The war only served to make more evident a fact which has been growing gradually into public consciousness—that the hope of America and its future is largely in the hands of American colleges and American college men. It is not necessary to repeat the story of the war record of Brown University—the college that went to war. Every alumnus is proud of the fact that Brown maintained not only an army but a naval unit during the war; that graduates and students gave themselves whole-heartedly for whatever work the emergency found them best fitted; that Faculty and officers not only deserted college halls for active service, but, remaining through necessity at their posts, performed duties that were as invaluable and as important as combat with the enemy. In a sense, the whole record is summed up in that magnificent declaration of the Faculty that "our policy shall be aggressive adaptation, not passive retrenchment." In another sense, Brown's Honor Roll, with the names of forty-two men whose ideals were dearer to them than life, speaks, more quietly perhaps, but as insistently, of the patriotism and service of the University.

The war has passed. Peace has come, bringing with it even more pressing problems. In war, however great the hardships, America was united, presenting a solid front to the foe; now, in peace, the country is lacking in complete union, faction rising against faction in discontented selfishness. Brown—in common with colleges everywhere—must meet this situation squarely. The maintenance of Brown's ideals of service depends upon the maintenance of her present standards in Faculty personnel and equipment—their enlargement and improvement where advisable. And this is clearly impossible with the present narrow endowment. Brown can compete neither with other colleges nor with business to recruit men for that most important of all tasks—the education of American youth. In this brief paragraph is the reason for the Endowment and Development Fund of three million dollars.

It will be impossible, of course, to raise three million dollars from Brown alumni alone. This amount is three times greater than any increase in endowment which the University has made at any one time in the past; it is six times greater than the largest single gift which Brown has ever received.

Brown's service, however, has been nation-wide; her influence extends throughout the world. It is altogether fitting that men of means who are not Brown men, who are perhaps not graduates of any college, should contribute to such a project. Such men can appreciate the function of higher education in America today, and are aware of the financial problems which hamper many colleges.

Brown men, of course, should make such reservations as will enable them to contribute generously to the Endowment and Development Fund. More than this—they should acquaint men of means with the ideals and service of Brown University. Every alumnus must constitute himself a worker for the Fund.

Theodore Roosevelt has said: "You teachers make the whole world your debtor; and of you it can be said, as it can be said of no other profession, save the profession of the ministers of the gospel themselves, that if you did not do your work well, this republic would not outlast the span of a generation."

Loyalty to such an institution is loyalty to the republic itself.

FRATERNITY NEWS

BROWN UNIVERSITY IN THE WAR

Additions and Corrections Received Since May 1, 1919

The office of the Executive Secretary presents herewith certain additions and corrections to the war records of the University, received since the publication of "Brown University in the War" by that office on May 1, 1919. These include one addition to the honor roll and many additions and corrections to the Directory of Service and Statistics of Service, brought up to Dec. 20, 1919. Further additions and corrections should be sent at once to the Executive Secretary, Brown University.

THE HONOR ROLL

Edgar Potter Black

Edgar Potter Black, a non-graduate of the class of 1917, sergeant in Battery B, 103rd Field Artillery, died in the service overseas on July 6, 1918. He was born in Newport, R. I., on July 19, 1896, the son of Charles Edgar and Lillian Potter Black. The family moved to Providence in 1898. Black was educated in the Providence public schools, preparing for college in the Barrington High School, from which he graduated in 1913. He entered Brown University in the fall of that year with the class of 1917. At Brown he became a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. In February, 1914, he enlisted in Battery A, Rhode Island National Guard. Black finished his first year at Brown and then took a position in the treasurer's office of the Providence Telephone Company. During the Mexican trouble in 1916, he went to the border with his battery, remaining in service from June to November. When the 103rd Field Artillery was enlarged in June, 1917, Black, then a corporal, was transferred to Battery B. His battery sailed in October, 1917. Black was promoted to wire sergeant in November, 1917. His battery was near Soissons from February 4 to March 16, 1918, and in the Toul sector from April 1 to July 1. Black had just moved with his battery to the American sector, northwest of Chateau Thierry, when he was taken ill. He was admitted to Evacuation Hospital No. 7, on July 3, suffering from a complication of erysipelas and meningitis. He died on July 6, 1918, and was buried in the American Cemetery near Coulommiers. Colonel Everitte St. J. Chaffee of the 103rd Field Artillery pays Sergeant Black a splendid tribute in a letter which he sent the boy's father:

"There is a type of soldier who quietly and efficiently does his work, meeting difficulties and overcoming them without a word of complaint, carrying out his program regardless of circumstances and absolutely relied upon by those over him to see things through and attain his objectives. If he, and those under his command, are repairing telephone lines of the artillery, shell fire can hardly ever prevent the re-establishment of communication; if observation instruments and telephones are out of order, if no tape or pliers are available for splicing wire, somehow things are quickly put to rights and, without a word, he finds a way and obtains the results.

"This, it seems, is about the most highly valued type of soldier, and as one who served on the Mexican Border with your son Edgar as his battery commander, and for months at the Front in France as commanding officer of his battalion, I found him to be one of the best of his type. Deeply as you must feel the loss of such a boy, it must be some help to know that his quiet, efficient and manly record lives as a powerful influence in the lives of his many comrades and friends."

Every friend of Brown will take pride in this showing of war-time loyalty and devotion.

A PATRIOTIC PLEDGE

The following pledge has been circulated by the Cammarian Club among the undergraduates, who have very generally signed it. The same pledge has been numerously signed at other colleges:

"In view of the great and dangerous social unrest which is finding expression in strikes and lockouts and their usual consequences; and in view of the unquestioned fact, that there are under our form of government and under our laws peaceful and legal methods of righting the social wrongs that it is claimed exist, and some of which undoubtedly do exist, and, further, in view of the fact that because of wrongs, real or supposed, individuals, and organized bodies of individuals, are engaged in movements which are in violation of law and which, if successful, would imperil, if not destroy, the very foundations of the Government of the United States, heretofore conceded to be the best and freest that has ever existed in any nation; and in view of the fact that many instigators of these movements in violation of law and in direct defiance of the Government of the United States are not American citizens, though some are;

"We, the undersigned students of Brown University, loyal to our Government and to the ideals of freedom which it represents, having served our country to the best of our ability in war in the armed forces and in the unarmed forces, without which the great war could not have been brought to a successful conclusion, hereby publicly declare our loyalty to the legally constituted authorities of the Nation, and offer our services to the President of the United States, for any use to which they may be put for the purpose of preserving law and order and thus insuring to each citizen the full rights to which he is entitled under the provisions of the Constitution."

ASSOCIATED ALUMNI NEWS

The class of 1854, sixty-five years out, has the honor of being the first to reach 100 per cent. membership. Both Samuel A. Reade of Romeo, Michigan, and Albert G. Utley of Phoenix, Arizona, have joined the Associated Alumni.

Other classes with the highest percentage of membership to date are 1859 with 50 per cent., 1881 with 43 per cent., and 1876 with 41 per cent. If the Associated Alumni of Brown is to equal the records set by the alumni of other universities many other classes will soon be near the 50 per cent. mark.

The following figures give, to a certain extent, an interesting line on the activities of the various local Brown clubs. In each of the cities named below a Brown club is located. The figures show the number of Brown men in each city (all presumably members of their respective local clubs), the number of undergraduates in college at present from each city, and the percentage of undergraduates to club members:

	No.	Under- graduates	Per cent.
Lynn	22	16	73
Cincinnati	9	6	66
Fall River	70	24	34
St. Louis	22	5	23
Woonsocket	28	6	21
Newark	30	6	20
New Bedford	44	8	18
New York city	292	35	12
Wilmington	13	2	15
Chicago	84	6	7
Newport	33	2	6
Bristol	37	2	5
Boston	162	4	2
Albany	26	0	0

In the above the sectional clubs have been omitted, due to the difficulty of getting accurate figures because the spheres of influence of these clubs are not definitely bounded.

The following letters from Brown men in foreign countries are of interest both because they show deep loyalty for the University and strong approval of the re-organized Associated Alumni.

Mr. Burwell, 1915, at present Rhodes scholar from Brown, writes: "It is very much of a pleasure to enclose a cheque for ten dollars as first payment on a life membership in the Associated Alumni. My interest in Brown is for life and so my membership should be also. The organization should receive the hearty support of all."

Y. R. Sun, of the class of 1912, writes from Shanghai, China: "I am much pleased to read your letter of August 15th, with enclosures. My membership fee has been suspended for some years, and the sole reason for this is that it is very inconvenient for me to arrange in China remittance of petty amounts. Now your letter informs me that the fee for life membership has been decided, to which action I express my high appreciation. I have no hesitation, therefore, to enclose you herewith a draft for $50, for which please acknowledge receipt. Should you favor me with letters and news kindly address them to 'Fou Foong Flour Mill Co., 57 Peking Road, Shanghai, China.'"

The Associated Alumni now has members in Roumania, China, England, France, Hawaii, India, Palestine and Spain.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE NEWS AND VIEWS

On Saturday evening, December 6, the first all-college dance of the year was held. Members of the Women's College staff acted as patronesses.

Much interest has been shown in the basketball tournaments in the gymnasium. They were scheduled for the afternoons of December 3d, 10th and 17th. The various class teams are contesting for the championship. One outside game has been played with the Lincoln School by the Freshmen. The score was 14-10 in favor of the Lincoln School.

Alumnae and friends of the college assisted in making Thanksgiving pleasant for the students who remained at the dormitories over the holiday. Thanksgiving dinner was served at Miller Hall. In the evening Mrs. Ralph C. Watrous opened her home for an informal supper party. On Friday afternoon Miss Charlotte

L. Tillinghast, 1896, invited some of the alumnae to meet the undergraduates at her country home at Nayatt. Outdoor games were played, supper was cooked before open fires, and dramatic readings were given by a group of alumnae and by Marion Midgeley, 1905.

News from Alumnae Clubs

A meeting of the Connecticut Valley Alumnae Club was held at Hartford on December 13th. The officers of this club are: president, Mrs. Andrew S. Thompson, 1899; vice-president, Mrs. C. Wilbur Cary, 1896; secretary-treasurer, Miss Asenath Tarr, 188 Sumner avenue, Springfield, Mass.

The officers of the Washington Alumnae Club are: President, Miss Lena Lopiansky, 1917; vice-president, Miss Winifred C. Wetherbee, 1917; secretary-treasurer, Miss Margaret B. Church, 1912, 1327 Girard street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

In the annual Sophomore-Freshman football contest, Dec. 3, the Sophomores won, 14-0.

The Juniors had a successful smoker at the Union, Dec. 12. Plans for Junior week and the Junior Prom were discussed.

ROBERT CUSHMAN MURPHY IN PERU

The following is an extract from a letter received by President Faunce, written Nov. 2, 1919, by Robert Cushman Murphy, Brown, 1911, who has been sent by the Brooklyn Museum on a scientific expedition to Peru:

"A few days ago a Brown man, John P. Gray, walked into my headquarters in Peru and introduced himself. I enclose a note which he requested me to send when he learned that I was about to write you. There is an old-time Brown man named Burbank living permanently in Lima, but I haven't yet had the pleasure of meeting him. It is good to see Brunonians in the South American field. You doubtless remember Theodore Chandler, who has made a fine record as a representative of the National City Bank of New York, first in Brazil and now in Chile. On October 25th he was married to Miss Mary Williams, of Cohasset, a younger sister of my brother Ed's wife, and he and his bride are now en route to Valparaíso. He and Miss Williams met at our Long Island home last summer.

"I am having a wonderful experience in Peru. I came here to investigate the life of the Humboldt Current, and I have found an extraordinary spirit of hospitality among the Peruvian scholars and officials. President Leguía himself has taken a personal interest in my work, and a Government steam trawler has been placed at my disposal. For three weeks I have worked from a base at the far-famed Chincha Islands, and I'm off again to-morrow for sea temperature observations and tow-net work along the southern coast, after which I am to go north to visit Lobos de Afuera and eight or ten of the other Guano Islands. The bird life here is probably the most abundant and spectacular in all the world. I came here with a liberal appropriation, but, since transportation is costing me nothing, and since the Government is putting food, even to mineral water and wine, on every rocky islet where I land, it looks as though I might carry my letter of credit home unused!

"I enclose two little snapshots which I took recently in the patio of the Universidad de San Marcos, established in Lima in 1551, and the oldest institution of learning in the New World. Groups of students who gather here look not very unlike our New England students, although the setting is entirely different from any to be found in the United States, except possibly at Stanford. The gallery of paintings, portraits of the viceroys and of professors of five centuries, is in the open air around the balcony of one of the square courts. The 'estudiantes' apparently have Yankee initiative, for not long ago the entire body went on strike on the ground that the faculty of mathematics was inefficient. The students won their case, and the department was reorganized. I have met several members of the faculty of natural science and also the gracious rector, Dr. Javier Prado y Ngarteche, a genuine statesman, a warm friend of the United States, and the author of a recent book entitled, 'La Nueva Epoca y los Destinos Historicos de los Estados Unidos.' All of these gentlemen ask the same question: 'How can we get into closer touch with American educational institutions? How can we bring more American scholars, especially men of science, to work among us?'

"Peruvians and Brazilians are undoubtedly the firmest friends that the United States have in Latin America, and I hope that the rapid expansion of American industry here will continue to be accompanied by a leaven of things not commercial. Whatever faults the Peruvians may have, they are not a material people, and the visits of such Americans as Rood and Gorgas have made a stronger impression upon their minds than all the successes of American business.

"With best wishes for old Brown,
"Yours sincerely,
Robert Cushman Murphy"

NEW BEDFORD ALUMNI

The Brown Club of New Bedford held its annual reunion at the Country Club on the evening of Oct. 22. There were '25 in attendance and the following officers were elected:

President—F. H. Gifford.

Vice President—Fred Thomas.

Secretary—Harry H. Burton

Treasurer—Charles F. Archambault.

Executive Committee — Edmund Wood, T. B. Baylies and Charles W. Barney.

The club went on record in opposition to any encroachment by new buildings on Lincoln Field. It was decided to have monthly luncheons.

It was reported to the meeting that of 14 New Bedford students now undergraduates at the University, one boy has consistently been the highest ranking scholar in mathematics in his class, and one of the most brilliant students in that subject in the entire university, and five of the fourteen are assistants in various departments—a tribute alike to the earnestness and high scholarship of the New Bedford students and to the preparation of the New Bedford schools. Mention was also made of the prominence of New Bedford students in athletics and other undergraduate activities, and especially of the success of George Young, who made the 'Varsity football squad in his Freshman year.

Of interest also to New Bedford was the report of the work of Professor Frederick Slocum, a New Bedford man, who heads the Department of Nautical Science at Brown. The University is the first in America to establish such a chair.

The club's guests from the University were Thomas B. Appleget, executive secretary and F. W. Marvel, director of athletics. They both spoke interestingly of the work of their departments. Edmund Wood, a member of the Corporation, told of some of the problems which face the University this year with a record Freshman class and the largest registration in its history. At the close of the formal addresses, the session resolved itself into a general debating club and there was a valuable exchange of opinions and ideas, together with some heart-warming reminiscences of other years.

NEW BEDFORD LUNCHEON

At the first of the get-together Brown Club luncheons at New Bedford the following were present: Fred W. Greene, Jr., '02, Theodore B. Baylies, '95, A. H. Gretsche, '12, Edmund Wood, '76, C. W. Barney, W. L. Chase, M. D., '76, Harry H. Burton, '16, Frank H. Gifford, '81, George L. Drowne, '98, E. P. Howard, '99, W. L. Lillie, '06, James H. C. Marston, '08, C. F. Archambault, '12, Rufus A. Soule, Jr., '99, Kenneth A. Flanders, '17, William F. Huntley, '07, and J. H. Weeks, '19.

On Jan. 13 a referendum of the college sentiment of the entire country concerning the peace treaty will be held in the form of a vote of the Faculty and student body.

The Brown Daily Herald has taken upon itself the task of presenting the matter to Brown University and carrying through all work connected with the affair.

JANUARY, 1920

THE BRUNONIAN IS NO MORE

The Brunonian, founded by members of the class of 1829 and reestablished in the late 60's, is dead. Let us drop a tear for it.

We who are not yet so very old but who nevertheless date back to the '70s, '80s and '90s remember it with affection. For many years it was the only Brown periodical excepting the annual Liber Brunensis. It came to us twice a month—later it made its weekly visits; still later it became a literary magazine and ultimately a humorous publication after the fashion of the Harvard Lampoon and the Yale Record.

Now it is no more, having died a more or less natural death. Its place is to be taken, in February, by the Brown Jug, which, we suppose, has a non-alcoholic significance in these prohibition days and will dispense nothing less discreet than molasses or vinegar.

As for ourself—having once been on the Brunonian board of editors—we regret the passing of our once dignified semi-monthly. We wish it might continue to-day as a literary magazine and we endorse the following editorial on the subject from the Brown Daily Herald:

"Glancing over the many and welcome exchanges that daily come to our sanctum we are struck by the frequent comment on the literary papers published in the institutions in question. Naturally we pause to ruminate on Brown's lack of such a magazine and inquire for its absence. The old Brunonian, we are informed, was successful as a purely literary paper; and only after descending to the comic field did it run into hard times and disaster. The Wastebasket Club for a time, along with the Sphinx of our own time, tried to keep alive a desire and appreciation of the good and inspiring in literature and poetry. Now merely the Sphinx and a revival of the latter days of the Brunonian remain with us.

"The causes? For one, is there not a lack of inspiration on the part of instructors? A magazine conducted purely on merit of articles submitted and accepted would go far indeed to improve the standard of culture in the University. And then, do we not lay too much emphasis on the financial side? A magazine such as Brown should have would need no advertising, essential as that is. Not being illustrated, there would be but the printer's bill to pay, and with simple yet elegant typography a moderate subscription price would amply suffice to pay expenses. Brown in the past has been rich in literary genius. The many collected sets of Brown verse prove it. That there are many 'literary lights' in actuality or in the making on the Hill we know. And with a guiding and helping hand Brown ought to enter the field with a purely literary paper."

BROWN ARCHITECTURE

We have received the following self-explanatory letter:

"I have found time to acquire a little information regarding new buildings, etc., at Brown, and I wonder why you do not bring out the idea, in your editorial pages, that we really might have a comprehensive plan, at Brown, and at no great cost, for future building development. After seven months in various parts of Germany, and eleven in France, I am ashamed to admit that we haven't anything to brag about, particularly our middle campus. At times I am reminded of a lot of poor relations in the midst of a large family. What the future plans are I know not, but I think we could look into the matter, not only for future growth, but with an eye to correcting present eyesores. If I must be specific, I'd refer to Rhode Island, Wilson (as now placed) J. C. B. Library (as situated), the old Chemistry and shop building, etc. Some of them are very attractive, probably, as individual buildings—but as a group, I am afraid that I like the French and the German idea a whole lot better. We can do it, I know. Possibly, because of my engineering training, I may lack the artistic touch of the Ph. B or A. B., but I believe in writing as I see.

W. H. Marble, 1912"

There is at Brown, as at every other American college that has had a long and gradual development, an obvious architectural inconsistency. This is not altogether pleasing to the eye, but to one who looks beyond and "reads between the lines" it denotes a wealth of history that the made-to-order and therefore architecturally symmetrical institution lacks.

Brown University at the present time is building consistently, or at least more consistently than in a previous period. It has definitely settled upon the Colonial type with a considerable freedom of adaptation which permits it to draw from the classical orders from which the Colonial got its inspiration.

Even so, however, we think there should be a more rigid architectural coordination in the future. For example, our most monumental building is the John Hay Library, which graces with its white marble the left approach on College Hill. Directly opposite is the Administration Building, which certainly does not balance its more pretentious neighbor. Yet both have been erected since a comprehensive architectural scheme was determined upon.

A LETTER FROM THE CARDINAL

The following letter has been received by President Faunce from Cardinal Mercier:

à Monsieur le Président de Brown University.
Cher Monsieur:

Je me fais un devoir de vous renouveler mes remerciements pour l'accueil si bienveillant et si empressé que m'a fait Brown University.

En me conférant le titre de docteur en droit honoris causa, vous m'avez donné un témoignage de sympathie dont je me sens honoré. Je me réjouis à l'idée que des liens étroits m'unissent à votre grande institution scientifique.

Veuillez agréer, pour vous et vos chers collègues, l'expression de mes sentiments cordialement dévoués.

THE COLLEGE CHRONICLE

WORK ON THE ARCH

The old wooden gates at the Manning Street entrance to the campus have been removed and workmen have laid the foundation of the arch to be erected in memory of the Brown men who died in the war.

The foundation will then be allowed to settle during the winter and in the spring the memorial will be erected.

It is now expected that the erection of the arch will be pushed to rapid completion, and it is hoped that it will be finished before the Commencement exercises in June.

FAMILY TIES IN 1923

The class of 1923 has materially increased the number of sons of Brown men at the University. With these it includes the younger brothers and nephews, a census showing that there are 32 Freshmen this year who come from families which have already been represented at Brown. Most of them are sons and brothers of other Brown men; one or two are nephews.

Last year, finding that there were less than 40 sons and brothers of Brown men in the entire college, the authorities circularized the alumni body and found that there were nearly 2000 sons and brothers of Brown men who would some day be ready for the University, the ages on the list ranging from a few months to 20 years. It was found that 60 of these men graduated from preparatory and high schools in June, 1919.

A THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR BROWN

Among the bequests in the will of the late Count Paul Bajnotti of Turin, Italy, husband of Carrie Mathilde Brown of Providence, was a gift of $1,000 to Brown to be used in founding a special department of classics in the University Library. The statement of that part of the will is as follows: "I bequeath to Brown University, founded by the conspicuous generosity of my wife's grandfather, and now flourishing in Providence, $1,000, to be applied to the formation in the University's library of a special department of the classics, and of other worthy Italian books, and to keep it well supplied."

In 1889, a few years following Countess Bajnotti's death, the Count erected the bronze fountain in front of the Providence railroad station in her memory. He also gave as a memorial to her the Carrie clock tower on the front campus.

FUTURE PETITIONS

Following the presentation to the Faculty early last month of a student petition, with 621 names, in favor of beginning the Christmas recess Dec. 20 instead of Dec. 23, the Cammarian Club issued the following notice:

In view of the unfortunate misunderstandings which grew out of the circulation of the petition for an extension of the Christmas vacation, the Cammarian Club feels that some permanent ruling should be adopted to provide for the future. Therefore, the Cammarian Club has made the following ruling: "No petition shall be circulated among the students before the Cammarian Club has passed upon the advisability of its presentation."

NEW BROWN SONG BOOK

Brown University is going to publish a song book which will be sold at cost to alumni, students and friends of the University. An appropriation has been voted for this purpose by the Corporation and work has already begun on the edition.

The book will be attractively bound in cloth and will contain about sixty pages. As far as possible only Brown songs and songs with a distinctly Brown flavor will be included. The song plates, of a standard size, will be the property of the University, and will be used, from time to time, for the publication of smaller paper-bound song books for circulation among preparatory schools and alumni clubs. In this way the high composition cost will be practically obviated in all future editions.

Two previous editions of Brown songs have been published by alumni, one in 1891, the other in 1908. Both of these editions have been entirely sold out for several years. The forthcoming edition is the first to be published by the University.

The new Brown song book is being published under the supervision of the Brown Publicity Committee, William T. Hastings chairman. The text is in charge of John B. Archer, song leader at Brown University. The committee would be glad to have suggestions from any alumni who are interested in this publication. Inquiries and suggestions should be addressed to Thomas B. Appleget, executive secretary of the University.

BROWN MEN AT CAMBRIDGE

The group of Brown alumni in the Harvard Law School has a live and vigorous organization. They call themselves the Chafee Law Club, after Zechariah Chafee, Brown, '07, professor of law in Harvard University.

On Thursday evening, Nov. 6, they had as their guest in Memorial Hall, Cambridge, President Faunce; and then adjourned to the home of Professor Chafee to hold a mock trial.

Those present with President Faunce at dinner included F. B. Frost, '15, F. J. Brady, '16, E. I. Cristy, '16, P. L. Cannon, '18, C. G. Edwards, '18, C. H. Eden, '18, W. M. Fay, '18, C. I. Munroe, '18, J. B. Rid-del, '18, T. F. Black, Jr., '19, R. T. Clapp, '19, J. S. Eastham, '19, W. H. Edwards, 2nd, '19, E. J. Lanpher, '19, F. B. Perkins, '19, A. J. Russo, '19, L. E. Stockwell, '19, all of the Law School; J. J. Walker, '19, and C. L. Evans, '19, of the Business School; and G. T. Welch, '19, now at M. I. T.

UNIVERSITY CLUB OFFICERS

The newly elected officers of the University Club are: President, Judge Charles F. Stearns; Vice Presidents, Frederic N. Luther, Charles C. Remington and John A. Cross; Secretary, Frederick W. Arnold, Jr.; Treasurer, Arthur L. Philbrick; Members of the Board of Governors to serve until October, 1922, Louis F. Baker, Fletcher P. Burton, Charles F. Bacon and Robert F. Chambers.

WHERE BROWN MEN COME FROM

Brown's men undergraduates are of the following geographical origins: Rhode Isl- and 357 (Providence 222), Massachusetts 200, New York 86, New Jersey 74, Connecticut 72, Maine 32, New Hampshire 19, Pennsylvania 19, Ohio 17, Illinois 10, Vermont 7, District of Columbia 6, Missouri 5, Kentucky 4, Maryland 3, Delaware 2, Michigan 2, Iowa, and Oregon, Colorado, West Virginia, Georgia, Minnesota, Indiana, Mon- ana, Washington, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Pan- ama, Dutch West Indies, China and Eng- land one each. New England contributes 67.38 per cent. of the Freshman class, leaving the unprecedentedly large percent- age of 32.62 from elsewhere.

FOOTBALL COMPARISONS

The New York Times groups (alphabeti- cally) the leading college teams of the East for 1919 as follows:

Group 1—Colgate, Dartmouth, Penn. State, Syracuse.

Group 2—Harvard, Pennsylvania, Pitts- burgh, Princeton, Washington and Jeffer- son, West Virginia.

Group 3—Navy, Yale.

Group 4—Army, Boston, Brown, George- town, Lafayette, Lehigh, Rutgers.

Group 5—Amherst, Cornell, Stevens, Wesleyan, Williams.

BOOKS FOR BROWN

Colonel George L. Shepley has presented to the Library of Brown University a col- lection of 17th century books with some of earlier and later date.

The chief author represented is Erasmus, the most popular writer of the Renaissance. Various exhibits of his favorite books are represented.

The collection is a selection of the fa- vorite reading of the scholar and well- informed reader of 300 years ago. In ad- dition to Erasmus are classic authors in the original or in translation, and also the pop- ular writers of the time.

THE BROWN HERALD SAYS:

Spontaneous entertainment for Saturday afternoons, now that football is over, is about as scarce as a good many other things in our highly complicated state of exist- ence.

Would that some of the Frick millions had come to Brown!

Someone suggests that a Faculty Dance be held!

Saturday afternoon finds Andrews Field abandoned and a serious crowding of the "movies" and theatres downtown. Strange that these college fellows must be amused!

Among the other scarcities of life is that of gym lockers.

They say the College Song Book will be good. Think what a wonderful joke book some of our campus wit might produce.

CLASSROOM AND CAMPUS

Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity wishes to announce that its charter has been with- drawn.

The Musical Clubs will appear at Ston- ington, Conn., Jan. 30.

Superior goal-shooting gave the Brown basketball five a 30-14 victory over the Boston University Law School quintette, Dec. 10, at the Lyman Gymnasium. The contest was the initial one for each team, and, all things considered, the game was well played,

The Cabinet and Graduate Advisory Committee of the Brown Christian Association held a joint meeting, Dec. 12, to discuss plans for the association. A supper was served in the Union dining hall.

The College Orchestra, an exceptionally good organization this year, played, by invitation of Dr. Faunce, several selections at the chapel exercises, Dec. 12.

Before a crowd of one hundred and fifty spectators, H. N. Lonergan, '20, (10) proved his superiority in billiards over V. F. Adams, '20 (5) in the close final game of the tournament, 100-99.

The Musical Clubs were at Wheaton College Norton, Mass.; Westerly, R. I., and North Attleboro, Mass., in December.

The A. E. F. Club entertained the A. E. F. Freshmen at the Union, Dec. 18. The committee in charge was Hugh Robertson, K. D. Johnson and Raymond West.

The College Orchestra has elected R. R. Baldrige, '21, leader; W. W. Hall, '21, business manager, and C. H. Pinkham, '22, publicity manager.

"Les Deux Souds" is one of the plays to be given by the Cercle Français after the Christmas recess.

At the class of 1880 discussion, Dec. 10, Walter M. Burse, '20, received the first prize of thirty-five dollars and Robert Gerstenlaurer, '22, the second prize of twenty-five dollars. The question for debate was: "Shall Freshmen at Brown University be debared from Varsity athletic teams?"

BRUNONIANS FAR AND NEAR

Graduates and former students are earnestly requested to furnish information regarding themselves to the Brown Alumni Monthly for use in this department. We offer our thanks in advance for this courtesy.

FACULTY

Professor Bronson is delivering a series of lectures before the Providence Biblical Institute in Manning Hall.

Professor Langdon spoke before the Rhode Island Reciprocity Club in Providence, Dec. 9, on the peace treaty, declaring the reservations proposed by the Senate justifiable and acceptable to the European Powers.

James Monroe Stockard announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Vera Stockard, to Professor Samuel Tomlinson Arnold of Brown.

Professors William H. Kenerson, John C. Dunning, Robert F. Chambers, St.

Most of the speakers, including the two prize winners, spoke for the negative.

BROWN ALUMNI DINNERS

The annual alumni dinner of the Brown alumni in Chicago will be held on Saturday evening, January 31, at the LaSalle Hotel. The secretary of the Chicago Association is H. E. Roelke, John Crerar Library, Chicago. Meetings in Washington, Detroit and Milwaukee will be held just before the meeting in Chicago.

The Boston alumni will hold their dinner on February 3rd or 4th, the New York alumni on February 5th and the Philadelphia alumni on February 11th. The secretaries are as follows: In Boston, George Bullock, 70 Kilby street; in Philadelphia, Charles S. Shinn, 1328 Chestnut street; in Washington, Reginald L. Brown, 1736 G. street.

SOCK AND BUSKIN PLAYS

The Sock and Buskin Society gave its first entertainment of the season Dec. 16 before a capacity audience in the auditorium of the Brown Union. Two one-act comedies, "Miss Civilization" and "Not on the Programme," were well presented.

After the presentation of the plays there was dancing until midnight with the university orchestra providing the music.

The following comprised the casts of the comedies: "Miss Civilization"—S. L. Rowley, '22; R. C. Litchfield, '23; B. P. Harris, Jr., '22; J. W. Scharf, '22, and H. M. Keele, '23. "Not On the Programme"—T. L. Sweet, '22; H. F. Rennie, '23; G. E. Gale, Jr., '22; F. G. French, '22; T. R. Jeffers, '23, and H. M. Cannell, '22.

George L. Souissat and Charles W. Brown represented Brown at the Association of Urban Universities in Boston, Dec. 19-20.

A current newspaper item has this note regarding the late Rowland G. Hazard, '76: "The largest insurance payment on a single life in 1918 was in the case of Robert A. Rowan of Los Angeles, Cal., the amount being $575,000. The second was in the case of Rowland Gibson Hazard of Peace Dale, R. I., the amount being $494,400."

Edmund Wood has been elected president of the New Bedford Chamber of Commerce.

Louis Rhodes Southworth died at his home, Arnold's Inn, South Woodstock, Conn., Dec. 1, 1919, after a long period of declining health. He was born at South Woodstock, Dec. 7, 1856, the only son of Rev. Alden Southworth and Hannah Elizabeth Arnold Southworth. His father was a descendant of John Alden and of Mrs. Southworth the novelist. The family tomb of the Southworths at Little Compton, R. I., is historic. Mr. Southworth's mother was a descendant of William Rhodes Arnold, from whom he inherited the historic Arnold's Inn, formerly the home of General McLellan, whose widow planted the elms in front of it on April 17, 1775, just two months before the battle of Bunker Hill. Louis R. Southworth fitted for college at Woodstock Academy and was graduated with the degree of A. B. from Brown in 1879 and with the degree of LL. B. from Yale Law School in 1883. At Brown he was a member of Beta Theta Pi. He was admitted to the Windham County (Conn.) bar in 1883 but never practiced law. Entering the newspaper business with the Putnam, Conn., Patriot, he served in an editorial capacity with the Norwich Bulletin, was reporter and desk editor on the Providence Journal, and for 24 years was the ship news reporter on the New York World. He was twice married, his first wife being Delia Avery of Norwich. After her death he married, on June 15, 1912, Mary Fitts, who survives him. Many stories are told of Mr. Southworth's unusual personality. One of them, related by a colleague on the World, concerns an interview with J. P. Morgan, Sr. "Morgan was busy, manifestly so. Other reporters noted the fact and discreetly refrained from approaching him. Not so Southworth. Duty was duty. He had prepared a form of questions and he bearded the financial lion. After answering one or two questions, Mr. Morgan let go with language more forceful than elegant. 'Not so fast, Mr. Morgan,' said Southworth, 'remember you are speaking for publication.' The sincerity and ingenuousness of the remark overcame Morgan's acerbity. 'Well, I'll be damned,' said Morgan. 'Southworth, I'll give you five minutes.'" Mr. Southworth was known by his friends as "Skipper," because of his position as ship news reporter. He was the best posted man in this line of work in New York. When the news of his death reached the World, the newspaper sent a member of the staff to South Woodstock to serve in any way possible and to remain until the funeral was over. Two extended articles regarding Mr. Southworth have appeared in the World, testifying to his unusual and picturesque characteristics. Theodore Ennis Murray of the World staff writes: "'Skipper' Southworth numbered his friends in newspaperdom by the hundreds. He was personally known to at least nine-tenths of the ship officers coming into the port of New York. He himself was unique. The very oddities of his personality endeared him to all who knew him. He was a paradox. Rarely smiling, he had a keen sense of humor. Measured in speech and of deliberation in action he was peculiarly individualistic. He knew men and had a deep quality of personal analysis. In the twenty-four years that he was the World's ship news reporter he met most of the worth-while personages who cross and re-cross the Atlantic. While keen for news as news, the quaint and the picturesque, which he wove into the sea yarns which for years were featured in the Sunday World, in the understanding of the sea and its men he ranked with Barry and Connolly. Perhaps more anecdotes are related of the 'Skipper' than of any man in the newspaper profession. His daily life seemed anecdotal."

Professor J. Irving Chaffee, former principal of the East Providence High School and later superintendent of schools in Rehoboth, Seekonk and Swansea, Mass., died suddenly of heart disease at the Webb Academy of Naval Architecture and Marine Engineering, New York, on Dec. 3, 1919. He had been resident manager of the academy since 1901 and professor of mathematics during the past 25 years. Mr. Chaffee was born in Seekonk, Mass., Jan. 3, 1862. He was educated in the Providence public schools. He was a member of the Guiding Star Order of Masons and of the New York Brown Club. Those who survive him are his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Harold Plough; two sons, J. Irving Chaffee, Jr., and Clarence C. Chaffee; two sisters, Mrs. Abbe Blach of this city and Mrs. Elizabeth Morrison. The sons are both coming to Brown. The funeral occurred in East Providence on Dec. 6.

1884

Colonel William P. Bowen was the speaker at the Wednesday afternoon meeting, Nov. 12, of the civics class of the League of Women Voters of Providence. Mr. Bowen spoke on "City Government."

1901

Nathan A. Tufts was re-elected District Attorney of Middlesex County, State of Massachusetts, on November 4, an office which he has held for the last three years. His vote was 70,450, while his opponent, the son of former Governor William E. Russell of Massachusetts, received 35,378.

1901 and 1915

William R. Harvey and William P. Sheffield, Jr., announce that they will continue the practice of law at their present offices under the firm name of Sheffield & Harvey, 223 Thames st., Newport, R. I.

1902

Dr. G. F. Paddock has recently gone to Santiago, Chile, as astronomer in charge of the southern astronomical researches of the University of California.

1903

John Hutchins Cady has been elected secretary of the Providence City Plan Commission.

Fred A. Otis is treasurer of the East Side Tennis Club of Providence.

Sherman A. Allen is now teaching at the South High School, Worcester, Mass. His address is 28 Maywood st., Worcester.

Bates E. Stover is located at Bloomfield, Vt., as superintendent of schools for Essex County. This is his eighth year as superintendent of schools in Vermont.

Benjamin Holland, Jr., is engaged in the building and construction business at Washington, D. C.

Truant Officer James R. Cannon of Providence recently attended the annual convention at Philadelphia of the National League of Compulsory Education, of which he is the treasurer.

W. A. Read has recently passed the bar examinations at Washington, D. C., and become associated with a law firm of that city. It may be of interest to know that it was his brother, Cushing Read, who first flew across the Atlantic on the NC4.

Herbert F. Davison is engaged in writing a laboratory manual in chemistry for those students in college who have had chemistry in preparatory school, but who need much more exercise in laboratory manipulation. The course outlined will be intermediate between beginning chemistry and physical chemistry. Davison has just been elected secretary of the Rhode Island section, American Chemical Society.

R. D. Cady is at present in charge of the research laboratory of the Diamond Match Co. at Oswego, N. Y.

C. L. Robinson, Secretary

Basil Boise Wood has been appointed librarian of the Westerly Memorial and Public Library, succeeding Rev. Joseph L. Peacock, 1900, who resigned to accept the presidency of Shaw University, Raleigh, North Carolina. Mr. Wood is the son of Nathan E. Wood, president of Newton Theological Institution. He received the degree of A. B. at Brown, and was reference librarian, Berkshire Athenaeum, Pittsfield, Mass., 1911-12. Since 1912 he has been city librarian, Springfield, Mass. In college he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Upsilon. For the last two years he has been engaged in war camp community service.

William P. Dodge is now a major in the Ordnance Department, Washington, D. C.

Donald Jackson has written the words and music of a new song, "Bring the Victory to Brown." It is an animated march. While in college "Don" wrote five Brown songs, "Ever True to Brown" (1905), "The Spirit That Wins the Game" (1907), "Junior Cruise" (1908), "Class Ode and Hymn" (1909), and "For Bruno and for Brown" (1912). Jackson has been prominent in the music world since he left college. During the war he was assistant leader of the Liberty Loan Glee Club and was active in Liberty Loan drives, and similar activities. He entered service as army song leader at Devens, and although he carried on the work of the leader he insisted on retaining the title of assistant, that L. P. Shave, who organized and directed it, might not lose his earned title. He also was selected by the Local division of Four-Minute-Men, to lead the singing in the theatre audiences, during the United War Work campaign and throughout Victory Singing Week. He is also the writer of several other popular songs.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate is especially recommended for the restoration of energy and vitality, the relief of mental and nervous exhaustion, impaired digestion or appetite.

HORSFORD'S
Acid Phosphate
(Non-Alcoholic)

Is a scientific and carefully prepared preparation of the phosphates, and has been found a most valuable general Tonic.

A teaspoonful added to a glass of cold water, with sugar, makes a delicious and wholesome beverage.

If your druggist can't supply you, send 25 cents to Rumford Chemical Works, Providence, R. I., for trial size bottle, postage paid.

Have You a Boy for Brown?

If so, it would be wise for you to make provision now for his college expenses.

We issue a Child's Educational Fund Contract for boys under eight years of age.

Under this form of contract the parent makes an annual deposit with us and we guarantee that when the boy is 18 we will pay him $500 a year for four years. If the parent making the deposits dies before the boy reaches 18, all future deposits are cancelled and we will pay the boy his four instalments of $500 each when he reaches 18. If the boy does not live to age 18 we return all deposits with compound interest at 4 per cent.

For the loyal Brown man, who wishes to assure his baby boy of an education at Brown, you can find nothing so ideal as this contract.
